

REMARKS

This supplements applicants' Amendment filed December 28, 1998. In that Amendment, applicants presented claims 1-100 for examination. In this Supplemental Amendment, applicants add claims 101-106. Accordingly, claims 1-106 are pending for examination. Claims 101-103 correspond to claims 1, 6, and 39, respectively, but recite "epidermal callus" rather than "reddish epidermal callus" and omit "casein hydrolysate." Support for "epidermal callus" is found, for example, on page 15, line 4 of the specification. Support for the recitation of "embryo induction medium" which does not recite "casein hydrolysate" is found, for example, in originally filed claim 39 and on page 15, lines 12-20 of the specification (which describes the addition of casein hydrolysate as a preferred embodiment). Support for claims 104-106 is found, for example, on page 18, line 3 of the specification. Claims 101-106 are added to clarify the instant invention. Claims 101-106 are patentable, inter alia, for the same reason provided in applicants' amendment of December 28, 1999.

Respectfully submitted,
